Annual Implementation Plan 2014

INTRODUCTION

This 2014 Tasmanian Alcohol Action Framework Annual Implementation Plan is the fourth combined plan under the Tasmanian Alcohol Action Framework 2010–2015: Rising Above the Influence (the Framework).

Government released the Framework in early 2010 to deal with the alcohol-related harm within communities including preventable illness, death, injuries, motor vehicle accidents, assaults and family and social issues.

The Framework's key strategies to address the harm through guiding, driving and underpinning the activities of government agencies, local government, community sector organisations and the liquor and hospitality industries are:

- Changing the drinking culture in Tasmania
- An effective system for controlling the supply of alcohol
- Providing effective interventions to deal with and prevent alcohol-related harm.

The Inter Agency Working Group on Drugs (IAWGD), which developed the Framework on behalf of Government, is also responsible for coordinating its implementation. An Alcohol Advisory Group (AAG) has been established to provide support and advice to the IAWGD on alcohol-related matters. The AAG's function is primarily to coordinate the development, implementation and monitoring of Annual Implementation Plans emanating from the Framework and to report annually on achievements and progress. Further details are available in the "Background" section at the end of this document.

There are two parts to this Plan:

1. A look back at the highlight of the activities in 2013 (Section 1 – shaded yellow)
2. A Plan of the activities and priorities for 2014 (Section 2 – shaded blue)

SUMMARY OF 2013 IMPLEMENTATION PLAN HIGHLIGHTS

Collaboration and partnerships feature prominently in the activities to date. This is not surprising as many of the activities and initiatives require government agencies and stakeholders to work collaboratively to achieve the desired outcomes.

The commitment of agencies and stakeholders to work collaboratively has been evident in the successful completion of the scoping study of legislation and regulatory regime dealing with the sale, supply and demand for alcohol and the management of alcohol related harm in Tasmania.

It is pleasing to note that the majority of the Legislative Scoping Study Report recommendations have been adopted or commenced in 2013, and are being worked on. The most significant of which is the commencement of a review of the Liquor Licensing Act 1990. The Department of Treasury and Finance commenced the review with the Review of the Liquor Licensing Act Discussion Paper, to canvas the issues.

The other significant development during the 2013 period is the introduction and commencement of the Mandatory Alcohol Interlock Program (MAIP), which came into effect on 31 July 2013. The MAIP was developed to help stop drivers convicted of repeat or high level drink driving offences from driving if they have alcohol in their system. Under the MAIP, a person is required to participate in the MAIP if they commit one of the following offences:

- a drink driving offence recording a BAC of 0.15 or more
- two or more drink driving offences in a five year period
- driving under the influence of liquor
- failing to provide a breath/blood specimen for analysis.

To legally drive, MAIP participants must fit an alcohol interlock from an approved supplier to any vehicles they drive. An alcohol ignition interlock stops a vehicle from being started if the driver has been drinking alcohol - a "Lockout". Interlocks protect road users by ensuring drivers are separating drinking and driving.

While the full outcome of the Framework is yet to be determined, the indication to date is encouraging and that the Framework is having a positive effect. For example:

- The number of public order incidents decreased by over 20% from 31,829 (2010-11) to 24,915 (2012-13). Although the public order incident data is not specific to alcohol, many of the incidents are known to be alcohol-related.

- The number of public place assaults decreased by 16% from 981 (2010-11) to 824 (2012-13). Although the public place assaults data is not specific to alcohol, many of the incidents are known to be alcohol-related.
- The number of offences against the person decreased by 10% from 4,069 (2010-11) to 3660 (2012-13). Although the offences against the person data is not specific to alcohol, many of the offences are known to be alcohol-related.
- The number of family violence offences where the offender is affected by alcohol decreased from by 8% from 825 (2010-11) to 759 (2012-13).
- The proportion of drivers detected exceeding the prescribed alcohol limit from the total number of Random Breath Tests declined by 0.2 percentage points, from 0.7% in 2010-11 to 0.5% in 2012-13.
- Since 2005 in Tasmania, there has been a statistically significant decline in reported alcohol consumption during pregnancy from 18.3% in 2005 to 9.5% in 2011, a reduction of almost fifty percent. The slight increase in self-reported use between 2010 (9.2%) and 2011 (9.5%) is not statistically significant.
- The proportion of serious casualties involving alcohol as a crash factor decreased by 5.3 percentage points from 24.4% (2010) to 19.1% (2012).

However, the prevalence of alcohol misuse and the health harm associated with alcohol in Tasmania remain a concern:

- According to the 2011-12 Australian Health Survey, the proportion of Tasmanian adults at risk of long term alcohol related harm (22.7%) is slightly higher than for Australia as a whole (19.5%).
- Tasmania has the third highest rate of risk of long term alcohol related harm of any Australian jurisdictions.
- In 2011/12, 82.3% of Tasmanians aged 18-24 years are estimated to be at risk of short term alcohol related harm, compared with 67.1% at the national level.
- In Tasmania, alcohol was the second most common principal drug of concern for which treatment was sought, accounting for 38.8% of all closed treatment episodes in 2010-11.
- Over half the alcohol-related serious casualties in 2012 involved Tasmanians under the age of 30 years.

The 2014 Implementation Plan continues this good work.

The Inter Agency Working Group thanks all contributors for their work, and is pleased to provide this year's Plan to the Minister for Health.

Advocacy Tasmania will continue to support a range of ATOD consumer engagement processes that facilitate individual and collective feedback to service providers and system managers relating to service quality and system planning. The consumer engagement processes include <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• development of a state-wide ATOD consumer organisation;</li> <li>• establishment of appropriate service-level consumer feedback mechanisms (satisfaction surveys, exit interviews, consumer panels, etc.)</li> <li>• encouragement for consumer participation in a range of training and human resource management activities relating to ATOD services (e.g., staff selection and performance management panels)</li> <li>• support to individual consumers participating in system-wide reviews (e.g., 2012 TOPP</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Managers and key staff, ATOD service providing organisations</li> <li>• ADS Service Development staff</li> <li>• Consumers</li> </ul>	Advocacy Tasmania's specific role in supporting consumers of ATOD services is currently funded only for the 2012-13 financial year, with ongoing funding to be determined, at least in part, on Tasmanian Government deliberations about whether initiatives funded from Future Service Directions are to be regarded as recurrent.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Demonstrable progress towards state-wide consumer organisation (e.g., formation of steering group, initial meetings, 'buy-in' from significant range of service providing organisations)</li> <li>• Number and range of training and HR activities involving consumers</li> <li>• Number and range of feedback mechanisms adopted by service providers</li> </ul>	In partnership with the ATDC, conducted a survey of service providers across the sector, which indicated that in the last two years there has been an overall increase in knowledge and importance placed on consumer engagement as well as an increase in the amount and level of consumer engagement activity. In line with this progression, the Consumer Engagement Program (CEP) has shifted focus from service provider support to more directly supporting consumers to participate at service and system levels. A Consumer Reference Group has been developed to advise on strategies of the CEP and particularly those used to build consumer capacity. The group meets monthly. One important task of the group is to provide a consumer perspective on strategies to support the development of a consumer organisation in Tasmania Supporting a consumer organisation along with hosting the annual forum are two strategies that have been identified by the ATOD sector as priorities for the CEP. These priorities were combined in 2013 with the annual forum being dedicated to the topic of developing an ATOD sector Consumer Organisation. In the absence of a formal consumer organisation ATI regards it as a necessary role of the CEP to support consumer participation into systemic issues. Early in 2013 the CEP did this by assisting Alcohol and Drug Services to develop and facilitate statewide consumer focus groups concerning the Alcohol and Drug Dependency Act (1968) Review. To sustain the gathering momentum towards consumer engagement in the sector, the CEP 'shares the vision' by, providing regular program

Section I: Tasmanian Alcohol Action Framework 2013 Highlights

Non-Government: Key Strategy 3 - Providing effective interventions to deal with and prevent alcohol-related harm

		review). *Note that the service providers target alcohol misuse as part of a broader approach to ATOD harms.				updates and the opportunity for service providers to showcase consumer engagement developments via ATDC's monthly e-news Bulletin.
KS3 (g) -Improving and encouraging service system and workforce development responses that operate across the primary, secondary and tertiary treatment continuum. This means increasing the capacity of the service system to undertake promotion, prevention and early intervention strategies and to undertake alcohol-related harm screening and risk assessment. This also means enhanced integration of alcohol and other drug interventions within primary health care, correctional primary health and other relevant services to improve linkages and referral mechanisms.	Advocacy Tasmania Inc.	Advocacy Tasmania will continue to provide state-wide independent advocacy support and representation to actual and prospective consumers of ATOD, mental health, disability and older person's services where alcohol-related harm is either a primary or secondary component of the service needs indicated. Of particular relevance to this TAAF key action are the following component activities: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• provision of information and advice to consumers about service options available to them</li> <li>• support, where required, in negotiating access to appropriate services</li> <li>• support, where required, in ensuring that appropriate case planning processes are undertaken and that the consumer is optimally engaged in those processes</li> <li>• liaison with other service systems that may impact on consumers' capacity to sustain their engagement with ATOD programs (e.g., income support systems, child protection systems, housing systems, etc.).</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Consumers experiencing alcohol-related harms who require support to negotiate key service systems;</li> <li>• Managers and key staff of service providing organisations</li> </ul>	Advocacy Tasmania's specific role in supporting consumers of ATOD services is currently funded only for the 2012-13 financial year, with ongoing funding to be determined, at least in part, on Tasmanian Government deliberations about whether initiatives funded from Future Service Directions are to be regarded as recurrent.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Numbers of clients where alcohol-related harms are involved</li> <li>• Number of information/support/representation activities arising for such clients</li> <li>• Proportion of activities that resolve the issues identified by clients</li> <li>• Client satisfaction with advocacy service received</li> </ul>	The ATOD Advocacy Program assists people with drug and alcohol problems to access and engage with drug and alcohol services. These consist of any services that provide intervention to individuals or their families for alcohol, tobacco or other drug use, including: residential rehabilitation, counselling and psychology, group intervention, drug replacement (e.g. pharmacotherapy) and pain management, detoxification and needle and syringe services. The Program also assists clients with other significant concerns that impact on their ability to effectively manage their drug and alcohol problems such as access to housing, accessing legal services and child protection matters. Clients using alcohol make up the second largest cohort of ATI clients. The Advocacy team also participated in the development of the ATOD Promotions, Prevention and Early Intervention Strategic Framework in its role as a member of the reference group and attended consultations in relation to the Alcohol and Drug Dependency Act Review prior to providing a written submission. In addition, ATI have made submissions concerning key strategy issues in relation to the Tasmanian Alcohol Action Framework annual Implementation Plan and participated in Tobacco Coalition meetings.

They can also perform basic First Aid or phone an ambulance if required. Volunteers have radio access to Police at all times. So as well as providing practical support to vulnerable individuals, they also are extra sets of eyes and ears for Police and other emergency services. Council is working with Tasmania Police, the Salvation Army Hobart and the City of Melbourne to explore the potential to adopt a similar project in Hobart.	General public	2014-15	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Recommendation made in relation to the safety initiatives</li> <li>Determination made in relation to the implementation or otherwise of the initiatives</li> <li>Drop in the number of assaults / alcohol related injuries</li> </ul>	New	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>DPEM</li> <li>Safer Hobart Community Partnership</li> <li>Liquor and Gaming Branch</li> <li>Licensees</li> <li>CSO</li> <li>Salvation Army Hobart</li> <li>DEDTA</li> <li>Taxi Companies</li> </ul>

BACKGROUND TO THIS PLAN

The Government released the Tasmanian Alcohol Action Framework 2010–2015: Rising Above the Influence in early 2010 (the 'Framework') to deal with the alcohol-related harm within communities including preventable illness, death, injuries, motor vehicle accidents, assaults and family and social issues.

The key strategies identified to address the harm are "Changing the drinking culture in Tasmania; an effective system for controlling the supply of alcohol; and providing effective interventions to deal with and prevent alcohol-related harm". These strategies are to guide, drive and underpin the activities of government agencies, local government, community sector organisations and the liquor and hospitality industries.

The Inter Agency Working Group on Drugs (IAWGD), which developed the Framework on behalf of Government, is also responsible for coordinating its implementation. An Alcohol Advisory Group (AAG) has been established to provide support and advice to the IAWGD on alcohol-related matters. The AAG's function is primarily to coordinate the development, implementation and monitoring of Annual Implementation Plans emanating from the Framework and to report annually on achievements and progress.

The Annual Implementation Plan outlines the range of activities to be undertaken by each stakeholder, the timeframe for implementation, how the activity outcomes will be measured and the partners involved in each of the actions. It is intended to be a living document, evolving to reflect the changing landscape. To assist with the monitoring the progress of implementation, a report against the Annual Implementation Plan is provided by all stakeholder at the end of each year.

Stakeholders are asked to report against their Annual Implementation Plan at the end of each year and to update their planned activities for the following 12 months. The feedback is then brought together into a consolidated Report of the highlight against the Plan.

The Annual Implementation Plan is also updated to reflect the activities and priorities over the ensuing 12 months, to highlight the activities that Government and other stakeholders interested in addressing alcohol-related harms in Tasmania have committed to undertaking.

The majority of the activities in the Annual Implementation Plan relate to stakeholders' core functions, are ongoing activities or activities that span several years, as such the Plan of actions for the next 12 months remain largely unchanged from previous years.

There is a section on the actions of Government agencies and a section to highlight the important involvement of non-government organisations in both the Report and the Plan.

The IAWGD will report to Government on the progress of the Framework on an annual basis through the Minister for Health.

The Annual Implementation Plan will be monitored and reviewed by the AAG on an ongoing basis. As participating agencies and organisations are responsible for their activities and initiatives, they will also be required to report on their performance against the Plan. Both quantitative and qualitative measures will be utilised in reporting performance against the plan of action.

In monitoring the Annual Implementation Plans, the AAG will be engaging with all participants and other key stakeholders to determine the appropriateness of the actions and initiatives; the achievement of the intended actions; the relevance and appropriateness of the key performance indicators; developments locally, nationally and internationally; and the changing priorities of the Framework.

If the issue of alcohol-related harm is to be addressed, there needs to be support for strategies that engage with the community and help to build capacity to deal with these issues.

The AAG will continue to look at ways to ensure ongoing engagement with the community (Local Government, community sector organisations, sporting clubs, and industry) regarding the implementation of the Framework and other alcohol-related matters.

A review of the Framework will be conducted in its final year of operation to determine the impact and the extent to which the aims have been achieved.
